Nestled in 1,000 acres of beautiful rolling hills in Dutchess County, Wethersfield is the living expression of everything that its founder, Chauncey Devereux Stillman, cherished and believed in. The Wethersfield Estate was constructed and refined over 50 years by Chauncey Stillman's careful eye as a place of personal retreat, agricultural experimentation, cultural enrichment, and scholarly conviviality. The estate's facilities and grounds are maintained for public visitors and community use.
